A Fast Algorithm for Finding Dominators in a Flowgraph

dominators of all vertices The semidominators have several properties which make their computation a convenient intermediate step in the dominators calculation If $w \sim r$ is any vertex, then $sdom(w)$ is a proper ancestor of w in T , and $idom(w)$ is a (not necessarily proper) ancestor of $sdom(w)$ is also dominated by all of v 's dominators, except itself Hereby u is the last vertex that every path in a graph have to go through to reach v The immediate dominators for all vertices in a graph can be arranged into a tree structure such that for a given vertex in the tree it is dominated by all of its ancestors
